What happens when the rain never stops falling?

What might the future sound like?

What might it look like?

And what kind of future world do we want to create together?

Join us at Byram Arcade for an evening of work in progress from The Rain - a new creative project exploring climate change, nature, resilience and our imagined futures through movement, music, sound and visual art.

Across the evening, artists and young people from Kirklees will share emerging ideas and experiments created as part of the project. Expect an evening of rain, rhythm, movement, sound and visions of future worlds, with plenty of space to experience, listen, reflect and respond.

ON THE NIGHT...

RAIN VISION by Chris Squire
Step into a rain installation exploring the atmosphere, imagery and possibilities of a world shaped by endless rain.

RAIN DANCE
by Hardeep Sahota & dancers from Honley High School
Movement becomes a response to rain, climate and the changing world around us in this new dance work with costumes by Lara Booth.

THE SOUND OF RAIN
by Duncan Chapman
An exploration of rain through sound and music, bringing together different musical worlds to create something entirely new.

This is an opportunity to experience the work while it is still being made, to see ideas take shape, encounter different artistic responses and become part of a wider conversation about the future.

The Rain begins with a simple question: what happens when we become disconnected from the natural systems that sustain us? What do we value, what do we want to protect, and what kind of future do we want to create together?

Come and see what happens when rain, music, movement, young voices and imagination collide.

You are invited to join us after the 7pm performance for an audience Q&A and social.

This event has been made possible with funding from Arts Council England & Kirklees Council.
